

Gary Fuhriman
Director of Commodities and Marketing
Idaho Farm Bureau

Gary has been involved in agriculture his entire life. He attended Utah State University where he met his wife, Sandy. They are the parents of five children and 16 grandchildren. They have farmed in Northern Utah and the Teton Valley of Eastern Idaho raising grain, hay and seed potatoes. They have been involved in local civic activities where ever they have lived. In 1987 they sold their share of the farming operation and started a new career with the Idaho Farm Bureau. His main responsibilities are developing relationships with agricultural groups and developing new markets for Idaho agricultural products. Farm Bureau has had good success in developing new markets for "identity preserved" grain with the Mexico flour milling industry. Gary also organizes farm tours and has lead tours to Canada, China, Mexico and other areas of the United States. Traveling is their hobby and have visited many areas of the world and have also entertained visitors from many other countries.
